WHO WE ARE

The Naveen Jindal School of Management exists to empower future entrepreneurs and innovators to become community leaders and global-minded citizens. Since our entrepreneurial inception in 1975, the Jindal School has emerged as a national and international research and management education leader with highly ranked programs.

We offer over thirty programs, including the MBA formats and nine areas of study for PhD candidates. Our Executive Education department boasts eleven master's programs, including the new Doctor of Business Administration and many academic and professional candidates. A world-renowned faculty, hardworking staff, talented students, and outstanding facilities contribute to creating a superior learning environment. The journey toward creating community leaders and global-minded citizens is ongoing and requires dedication, innovation, and a commitment to continuous improvement.

Well-Rounded with a Global Perspective

The Naveen Jindal School of Management is home to over 10,000 students representing over 71 countries. Part of UT Dallas's appeal lies in its many student organizations to students' ties to their home countries. UT Dallas is at the top of the list of national universities with the highest diversity index. Here, at the Jindal School, we find our global approach feels like home for everyone.

Socially Conscious and Community Minded

The Jindal School's UTDserv Program connects undergraduate students with local nonprofit organizations to apply their skills to real-life problems and shape them as cause-minded business citizens of the future. Students provide 100 hours of service before they graduate. The total value of those hours serving the Dallas-Fort Worth community exceeds $1,500,000.

Beyond an Alumni Network

The Jindal School stays connected with alumni through several involvement opportunities, including networking, volunteering, and mentoring. One such great example is the Jindal school-led program called Meteor Mentoring. The program allows current students to build and cultivate lasting connections with alumni and friends of the school.

New Dimensions Campaign

The New Dimensions campaign aims to build upon a half-century of momentum, propelling UT Dallas' growth and success through the next 50 years and beyond. Each gift toward the University's $750 million goal will support the needs of exceptional students, facilitate the enterprising work of UT Dallas faculty and realize the possibilities that exist when world-class researchers and visionary artists share a home.
